

UFOTable have posted a short clip for their upcoming series Minori Scramble, and here it is:

Not much you can tell from the trailer other than it's going to be rather frenetic and wacky. ANN describes is as a

"slapstick science comedy" [that] revolves around Tamaki Kakegawa, a fifth-grade girl who dislikes penguins after having to deal with them so much because her father is a penguin researcher. The antics begin with the appearance of Minori, a penguinoid (penguin + android) created to overcome Tamaki's dislike of penguins.

All I know is that I can't think of a UFOTable series that has disappointed me, at least on first viewing (some of their shows

a little lacking in the rewatch value department). This one certainly

curious enough...
