

Nozomi Entertainment began streaming the first episode of Maria Watches Over Us (Maria-sama ga Miteru) earlier today, and the good news is that the stream is open to UK viewers. You'll find it on Nozomi's YouTube channel, and further episodes will be rotated in (and presumably out) in coming weeks. The series is set in a catholic all-girls high school, and follows the friendships of a group of girls there - typical slice-of-life stuff that's strangely appealing, and not just because it can all be viewed through fandom's legendary yuri goggles. Not the most exciting of shows out there, but worth checking out.
